FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Western Green announces a McPherson, KS manufacturing facility.

Evansville, Indiana – May 9, 2019 - In continued efforts to serve our customer base, we are excited to announce a new manufacturing facility in McPherson, Kansas. This facility strategically expands our company footprint and is part of our current growth strategies. Located near Salina, the new facility location is in a key regional hub for manufacturing, transportation, and raw materials.

We expect the McPherson, KS facility to be operational late summer, with additional capacity added before spring 2020. This facility will have the capacity to produce sediment control wattles and Erosion Control Blankets (ECBs), and will manufacture ECBs using a range of fiber types. We are excited for this business venture and look forward to continued growth.

About Western Green:

Western Green is the corporate identity for the newly founded manufacturing group representing Western Excelsior and North American Green erosion and sediment control brands. Western Green is a family company that began manufacturing machine-produced excelsior in 1977. Since that time, the company has continued to expand facility and office locations and widen its product offerings and services. This growth, combined with honest effort and service, has earned Western Green a leadership position within the industry. Western Green has led and maintained an active presence with industry organizations and pushed the industry forward through manufacturing and product innovations. Along with our valued, exclusive distribution and regional customers, Western Green offers high quality and diverse product lines both nationally and internationally. Looking to the future, the new Western frontier is bright with opportunity as offerings, capabilities, efficiencies, and support continue to expand.
